Discover Screen

Here one can view stories and news of a specific category and can look into popular authors and writers profile through the discover page.

Trends & Menu Panel

This is the most important screen when it comes to the architecture of the app.

User can create a match stating the time, court, location, number of players, level of the game.

The creator can also decide whether to keep the game as private or just friends or public.

Once submitted with will act real time.

Website Homescreen & Category Screen

This is linked with the app and will share a common dashboard for upload purposes. There would be several categories, a search bar and news that will be based on the date of upload.

By clicking on the category button below one can choose their favorite category and read articles from there.

For those of us who want to say thank you to our moms, it's not always easy to put those big feelings in words. Which is where Dribbble comes in.

These eight shots crystallize the hard work moms put into keeping their kids alive, happy, and healthy. They might give you the inspiration you need for filling out that card—or stand alone for your mom's interpretation.

Moms are the ones who bandage our boo-boos when we're little and continue to take care of us as we get older—often sacrificing their own needs so they can help with ours. Cruising on a bike to help heal our injuries is the most mom thing one can do.

They're the ones we rely on for playdates and emotional support, homework help and babysitting. Moms are the ultimate dependable support. Like, hopefully, the button on your jeans.

Moms are like...buttons? Moms are like glue. Moms are like pizza crusts. Moms are the ones who make sure things happen—from birth to school lunch.

My hero when I was a kid was my mom. Same for everyone I knew. Moms are untouchable. They're elegant, smart, beautiful, kind...everything we want to be. At 29 years old, my favorite compliment is being told that I look like my mom. Seeing myself in her image, like this daughter up top, makes me so proud of how far I've come, and so thankful for where I come from.
